Hello Dr. Roug,

This afternoon, a couple of CDC Epi Aid partners, Dr. Cossaboom and Dr. Wendling, come into Salt Lake to help assist us with this outbreak response. There will be additional CDC support arriving tomorrow afternoon as well. Would you and your team be available for a brief call to touch base about the outbreak response and CDC's interest in the wildlife side of this situation either later this evening or tomorrow morning?

CDC is interested in the possibility to trap/test wildlife in the affected areas, possibly as early as tomorrow evening 8/19 if possible.

I will try to make it on this call. I will be travelling to southern Utah and may have poor cell service. What I needed to tell you off the call is that there was a bit of a storm today with the producers. I am working on mending it but one producer is tossing everyone off. Not due to anything that they have done. I am hoping to have some headway tomorrow. I have good help assisting.

Hi Hannah,

I didn't mention this on the call yesterday, as we had so much else to cover – but as this is a new species for the US, USDA will put out a press release; so super important that all animal and public health PIOs work together on this.
